Thank you for being our guest at today's RISE breakfast.

RISE – Reskilling for Impact, Scale and Enterprise leadership – is a new approach to continuing education, focused on serving talent development professionals in Arizona. We understand the critical need for today's workforce to reskill, and believe the future belongs to the innovative.

RISE is built to foster strategic mindsets and cutting-edge perspectives, offering unique learning opportunities and benefits to our employer partners. RISE will feature a variety of programs designed for you and your workforce, including practical sessions like today's breakfast, executive education training, and formal continuing education opportunities.

If there's one thing every talent development leader agrees on right now, it's that no upskilling strategy is complete without a strong foundation in data and AI skills. These competencies are no longer reserved for technical teams — they are quickly becoming essential literacy for every level of the workforce, shaping how organizations make decisions, serve customers, and stay competitive. That is why RISE's first program takes direct aim at building this exact skill set.

Our pilot program is the part-time Master of Science in Data Analytics based in Chandler, Arizona, the "Silicon Desert." This program builds on concepts introduced during today's breakfast and can provide an immediate opportunity for you and your workforce, with seats in the Spring 2027 cohort already filling.

We hope our time together this morning marks the beginning of a longstanding partnership with Eller, and that you will consider becoming a formal RISE Employer Partner to ensure priority access to reskilling opportunities as they become available. Please scan the QR code to request a date and time that works for you so we can continue the conversation.

Finally, all materials presented today and included in this information packet are available digitally. Simply scan the QR code below for access!

Thank you again and have a wonderful day!
